GRADUATION 1941 .....Cut by GERALD RAY

Farewell! Say Thirty-Six Grads to Carmel High

Wednesday Is Gala Day for Scarlet and Gray-robed Class of '41 Who Will Receive Diplomas at Sunset Auditorium

By ALLY VIDORONI

"Blow the trumpet, beat the drum, here the Carmel graduates come!" The four years of poring over text books have finally come to an end for the Class of '41. Thirty-six of these bright, up-and-coming young ladies and gentlemen are about to receive their diplomas. With tears in their eyes the seniors will leave their new high school.

The graduation exercises will commence promptly at 8 p. m. Wednesday, June 11, in Sunset School Auditorium. The 36 graduates will be robed in sophisticated caps and gowns. The caps and gowns will be in the school colors —scarlet and gray. Decorations for this occasion are under the directorship of Ann Millis who will be assisted by other members of the class.

The program of the evening is as

Carmel Guy

His Main Goal in Life Is to Have a Good Time

By ART STRASBURGER

Yes, he's the Carmel guy—the one who is always trying to think of a better excuse than "I'm going to the library, Mom," when he wants to get out on a school night. He would like to have an expensive convertible — preferably with red leather seats—than anything else in the world. He never has very much money, but then that's the advantage of being a Carmel Guy, he never needs much; he's judged by what he is, not by what he's got.

He just about goes mad when Spring vacation comes around and the town is filled up with "babes." You'll see him tearing around in his car (?) trying, by hook or crook, to meet some of them.

He takes up smoking because he thinks it makes him older than he is, and soon he realizes he has started something that he can't stop. He likes to play the mechanized version of hare-and-hound, and that's probably what you hear when three or four Model A's go sputtering by your house at about midnight followed by Earl or Stoney or Les who is getting ready to flash his red light and give the last guy in line a good bawling out and tell him to go home. He says he hates the cops, but deep down he thinks they are really pretty good Joes, who could rightfully be a whole lot tougher than they are.

He is always looking for a new alibi that he can use when he gets caught for cutting school in favor

Hugh Comstock Unanimously Elected to School Board

Unopposed for his second four-year term on the Carmel High School Board of Trustees, Hugh W. Comstock today was conceded the victory by election officials Trev Shand, Florinda Holm and Elizabeth Sullivan.

Mr. Comstock is a tall and dignified gentleman with a kindly smile and a twinkle in his eye. He is generally respected and admired for his willingness to contribute to the welfare of this community. The fact that he is unopposed speaks well for his splendid record as a board member.

According to the school code of California, notice of intention to run for trusteeship must be filed at least 15 days before the election, and although no one has come forward to contest Incumbent Comstock, the election will take place in the Sunset School Library, Friday, June 6, from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Impressions of Council Meeting

By ROBERT YOUNG

On Wednesday I attended the city council meeting. As this was my first job at reporting, my notes were a bit muddled, I fear, and I

STUDENTS RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS ISSUE

This week the Pine Cone was edited and news copy was contributed by students of Carmel High School who devoted their time and effort right in the middle of their "final exams" period. Ann Millis was acting editor; Alice (Ally) Videroni, associate editor; Emma Wishart and Jacqueline Klein assistants. Army material was handled by Lewis Norman, Jr. Town Council was covered Wednesday evening by Robert Young. Donald Craig and members of the Pine Cone regular staff acted merely as advisors.

Marriage to Blast Teaching Career

Adele Osborne, who recently announced her engagement to Elmore H. Biles, Jr., will be married this summer. That's old news,—but here's a scoop. Still unknown to most of her pupils is the fact that Miss Osborne will not return next year to teach at the high school.

The future Mrs. Biles has been teaching in the Carmel schools for the past two years. The couple will make their home in Oakland. Mr. Biles is employed by Dunn and Bradstreet in San Francisco.

As yet no new teacher has been selected to conduct the French, Latin and English classes for next year, but according to her pupils, it will be hard to fill the place of their demure blonde little institutrice de langues.

They wish Miss Osborne and her husband-to-be all happiness.

Hats Off to Franklyn Hay

If anyone ever deserved a Carnegie medal, Police Officer Franklyn Livingston Hay certainly does now for his heroic work last week-end on Carmel Beach. Several times Officer Hay swam out nearly a quarter of a mile beyond the dangerous surf to save the lives of five individuals — Ensign Harry Martin, U. S. N., Corporal Dan Lilliard of Fort Ord, W. A. Clark, R. H. McAleer and Frank Libonati. Our hats are off to this gallant officer.

A great deal of credit is due also to Carmel's Volunteer Fire Department which did such excellent work last week-end rushing the ambulance and pulmotor equipment to the beach.

A Suggestion to the Council

By ART STRASBURGER

If you were to ask the kids in Carmel what improvement they would like to see made in Carmel, I am sure that at least 75 per cent of them would answer in words to this effect: "Oh, I'd like to have some place where we could all go to dance after a show or a basketball game or when a gang of us get together and don't have anything to do. You know—an old barn with a "juke box" and a "coke" vending machine. Just any place like that would be swell. Then when vacations come along and the out-of-town kids here about the place, why we'd all have a chance to make a lot of new friends."

Whether or not you think such a place would be an improvement or not, I do not know; that's a matter of opinion. As for myself, being one of those kids, I think it is. I've seen about 20 or 30 kids dancing on the driveway of the Standard Station to the music of a car radio, just because there was no place better. For a while the "Mission Ranch Club" was the gathering place for the gang when nothing was doing in town. It was almost ideal, till the old "juke box" they had there finally broke down. At such gatherings the kids were entirely on their own, as might be expected; they were a little rowdy until enough people gathered to make a good-sized dance—word had to spread that there was one. Then they quieted down and enjoyed themselves as they would at any dance. The parties broke up at about 1 o'clock and without any adults dropping a hint that it was time for all good little kiddies to be in bed. I hope I have answered the first question that probably came into your mind when I mentioned such a dance hall in the first place; would the youngsters—by the way, we don't go for that youngster stuff any longer—know how to behave if they were given such a place?

Such a dance hall might well be sponsored by the police or fire department. It might be run in any number of ways. Like the Miss Ranch it might be there whenever the kids wanted to dance. It might be open only on special nights, when a small admission charge would be made—during Easter vacation it would be a simple matter to gross $40 or so a night, charging an admission of only 10 or 15 cents. Such a dance hall might be open only to those holding cards issued by the sponsor of the hall, such as the civic dances in Pacific Grove, which are well attended and enjoyed by all. Surely some plan could be worked up. The ideal situation, however, would be to have a hall—just an old dump if nothing better could be afforded — where every one was free to go, where all that was needed was a group of light-hearted kids with enough nickles, dimes or quarters to fed a "juke box" and have fun.

Due to lack of space in this issue, several church notices, Lee Crowe's column, "Crowe's Nest" and Jessie Joan Brown's "The Dogs Do Bark" have been held over until next week. Also reviews of the Troupers play, "The Drunkard", and the Players Guild performance "Carnation."

present but my own impressions of the proceedings.

The most interesting discussion occurred when the council considered an application by the Purity Stores to build a new drive-in market on the northeast corner of 6th and Mission. The store representative submitted a photograph of a similar building in Palo Alto resembling a dirigible hangar. After hearing some caustic remarks about the possibility of hiding it with trees or of the Germans' coming over to blow it up, he offered to add a small tower in front. The council still refused to grant permission, saying that, after all, they had to live here.

The beach situation was thoroughly examined. Councilman Fred Godwin spoke of the rescuing of seven persons and the heroic work of the army and police. He suggested placing on the beach a rope for the use of anyone in need of it, and Mr. M. J. Murphy kindly offered to supply it if it did not exceed 1000 feet in length. It was agreed to let Mr. Godwin do as he thought best.

The rest of the meeting consisted of the granting or refusing of various petitions and applications, none of which left any impression on your reporter.

"The Hunters" Is Most Enjoyable

Review of Del Monte Summer Theater's Second Production

By ANN MILLIS

On its "test flight," "THE HUNTERS brought rounds of applause from the audience last Wednesday night at the Del Monte Summer Theater.

THE HUNTERS is being tried out as a play for Broadway. The Monterey peninsula has the good fortune to be the guinea pig in the case. Mr. Oliver H. P. Garrett has written a play full of suspense and excitement. It is the story of four generations of the Hunters, showing the great division of strength and weakness which can come in one family. Garrett is planning to make certain dramatic changes in connection with audience reaction. Undoubtedly he will telescope some of the longer scenes that have a tendency to lag.

To Gwen Anderson goes credit for a superlative performance. Her subtle development of character showed a technique worthy of a veteran, though Miss Anderson has had only three years' actual stage experience at the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

Mary Servoss portrayed her part as Mrs. Alice Hunter, the selfish, vicious mother, with the perfection that can only be gained through years of experience in the theater.

Geoffrey Hunter's part was capably filled by Philip Coolidge. The scenes between Andrew Hunter and Katy, done by Con Porter and Sharley Simpson, were effectively handled. Edmund Glover as Cam Hibbs was uncertain of his character during most of the play, yet showed his potential acting ability by good handling of one or two scenes. Patricia O'Callaghan's portrayal of Madeleine Hunter brought a vivid character to the audience.

Certainly THE HUNTERS is a professional show. It has all the finish found only in a production of experienced actors. The play will continue through Sunday. Don't miss your opportunity to see it.

"BUD" BROWNELL BRINGS HOME VICTORY

Ray Brownell, well known around Carmel as "Bud", brought home a victory to Carmel last week-end—the Northern California amateur golfing championship.

Sunday, June 1st, Bud won his newest title by beating his Stanford teammate, Dee Replogle of Oklahoma City, 4 and 3 at the Orinda Country club.

Carmel is wishing Bud good luck when next month he will attempt to win the national collegiate championship in Ohio.

THANKS, DOC!

One of Carmel High's most ardent supporters is genial rotund Doc Staniford. Good ole Doc is on everyone's hit parade. The kids up on the hill are grateful to this Carmelite who from the very beginning has been a strong supporter of organizing this school. To sum it all up we thank you, Doc!

This Week's Acting Editor

Ann Millis, acting editor of The Pine Cone this week, comes by her journalistic talents rightfully; in fact she probably couldn't avoid it. What else could a girl with parents who both worked on newspapers at one time and a sister and brother now working on the Monterey Herald do but learn to pick up a pen and start in writing? And that's just what she did. As a graduating member of Carmel High School, Ann leaves behind her a pretty pleasing record. When Art Strasburger became ill and could no longer act as editor of El Padre, the Carmel High yearbook, Ann stepped right in and took over the job. The yearbook speaks both for itself and for Ann.

Ann has also done a good job of being Commissioner of Social Activities, and as a member of the Girls Athletic Association, besides taking a strong interest in the athletic activities. She has been in several of the high school dramatic productions, one of which was given over KDON. Her last achievement has been editing the great publication named The Pine Cone.

NEW PRESIDENT OF STUDENT BODY

Lynne Strasburger was elected president of the Carmel High School Student Body at last week's election. Other officers, as announced by Ally Vidoroni, retiring student body president, are Bill Christierson, vice president; and Doris Evans, secretary.

Abalone Follies With No Abalones

Sparked by the infectious master-of-ceremonying of Howard Levinson, students of the high school put on the Abalone Follies last Monday evening in Sunset School Auditorium. It was proclaimed a success by all who attended the production.

The show had been postponed the night before, but rather than call it off entirely, the students decided to give their part of the program. On Monday afternoon all the students gathered at Sunset for a rehearsal in order to organize the show. All the classes contributed some sort of talent to make these follies a hit.

Although no admission was charged, a collection was taken at the close of the show. It is reported that over $80 was taken. The money will go towards the Carmel High School Athletic Fund. The students, Miss Gulmert, and all other persons who helped out, are to be congratulated for their work and their willingness to donate their time in making this performance such grand success.

—ALLY VIDORONI.

BLIND GALLIPOLI VETERAN SPEAKS AT SUNSET

Sir Clutha Mackenzie, an Anzac soldier who lost his sight during the first World War action in the ill-fated Gallipoli campaign, spoke last night at Sunset school auditorium on behalf of the thousands of men who have suffered similar tragic injuries in the present war. Sir Clutha was the representative of St. Dunstan's, an agency of the British War Relief Society which handles all grave eye injury cases resulting from the war.

of an afternoon at the beach; when he gets a few hours in detention after school, he philosophically consoles himself with the thought: "Oh well, I can get my homework done so that I can go out nights without worrying." He says that when you're in high school you are having the best and easiest years of your life; he is going to have his fun now and settle down when he gets into college or goes to work, and he probably will.

He likes to talk about different girls, always admiring the nice kind that won't go down to the point with him, but he seldom dates any of them — outside of three or four of the best looking who are at all the dances. He thinks that the old Carmelites are a bunch of old fogies with a lot of old-fashioned ideas. He loves the trees in Carmel as much as any Carmelite, but he just can't understand why the council won't give orders to cut down a few of them that are in the middle of the road.

Though he is more abreast of the times now than he ever was, he can still tell you a lot more about what's going on in the funny papers than what's happening on the front page. His favorite Carmel journalist was W. K. B.; it was so much fun criticizing his editorials and sometimes even agreeing with him, especially when he was for the new school bond that was just recently passed. He'll always remember Mr. Lyons and how, when he was a little kid before and after the tragedy of the Golden Bough, Mr. Lyons used to let him into the show free, even when he was no longer paying only a dime to get in. Yes, that's the Carmel guy; he's no different than any other fellow, except that he has been brought up under the influence of the one-and-only CARMEL.

The Douglas Winslows have returned by plane, from Seattle, Wash., after a delightful trip. While there the Winslows visited many friends who live on Lake Washington.

Buck Kotzebue—an Interview

Description of Two-Months' Voyage in Eastern Waters

When I try to write about my travels, it is always rather difficult to decide where to start. The life of an army brat is one of constant travel, both in the U. S. and on foreign service. I have decided to write upon my travels within the last two years.

Towards the end of our tour in the Philippines my dad decided we were going to see a bit of the Orient before we left. It was the habit of most officers and families to serve their time and hightail it back to the states. My mother had already traveled in Japan and north China the year before. We planned on seeing as much of southern China and the East Indies as possible in two months. On March 1, 1940 we sailed from Manila on the Dutch ship "Boissevain".

The trip to Saigon, French-Indo China, took about two days. We remained in this beautiful typically French city for a week, shopping, sightseeing, learning French, and stuffing ourselves on French cooking. We left Saigon by motor car, driving at leisure through the Cochin-China peninsula into Cambodia. One of the most interesting stops was at Pnon-Phenh. Here we saw the making of beautiful silver ornaments, the sultan's luxurious palace and his beautiful dancing houris. We stayed for two days and drove on through Cambodian beast-infested jungles to the lost city of Angor-Wrack. The magnificent central palace and its numerous temples and streets showed a beautiful, long-deserted civilization. Constructed approximately 15,0000 years ago, no one has been able to figure out who the builders were or why they suddenly departed. Here we remained three days before going on to the Siamese (or Thailand) border and then on by train to Bangkok.

Bangkok, the capital of Thailand, is a wonderful combination of modern and ancient. Its wide boulevards, beautiful parks and modern business center are what one would expect to find in an American city. Its ancient pagodas, innumerable canals and teeming population are in picturesque contrast. Here innumerable canals and teeming population are in picturesque contrast. Here we saw the beautiful Porcelain Pagoda, Sacred White Elephants, the Palace of the Emperor and modern legislative building.

We stayed in Bangkok only about four days. The "Boissevain" had come around the peninsula and had stayed in Bangkok quite a while. We boarded her and sailed for Singapore, which we reached in two days and a night. In this British base we stayed about a week, staying at the Raffles Hotel. We saw very little of the fortifications, which are heavily guarded. We did, however, travel up into Malaya, where we visited the palaces of the immensely wealthy Sultan of Jahore.

Our next stop was Batavia, Java. Here we said goodbye to the "Boissevain," which went onto Africa. The trip through this beautiful Dutch Island was one never to be forgotten. The wonderful work of the industrious Dutchmen were everywhere visitble, in the plantations, native villages and cities. Still he had left the natural loveliness of the island untouched. Our trip through Java and Bali took about two weeks. We sailed from Sourebaya on the "Tjisedane", another Dutch boat, bound for Macassar, Borneo and home. We spent little time at any of these, but took the "President Coolidge" from Manila for Hong Kong. We lived in Kowloon, on the mainland for almost a month, seeing Victoria Island, journeying into China, playing golf, and watching the Scots regiments drill. We grew to love the whole atmosphere, and regretted the time when we had to say goodbye. Our return was on the U. S. Navy Transport Henderson. The trip was short, and we were all sorry to see the whole thing end, but were rather thrilled at the thought that in 24 days we would be back in the good old U. S. A. after an absence of two and a half years.

—Lewis Norman.

A DIFFERENT PLACE

The dogs, the policemen, the obscure trees, the old folks, and the quaint shacks combined together make up a place which is very different.

In the summer, when ol' Sol is blotted out by the misty fog, the populace is shocked at the sight of bare legs tramping up and down famed Ocean avenue. Might I say, everybody except the merchants and realtors.

In the winter the wind and rain, the shouts of the paper boys, and the muddy thoroughfares are the topics of speech.

Even though all these things are different, they make up the "quaintest town on earth." This town is Carmel.

A GOOD FIRST YEAR

It's been a good first year at Carmel High.

Progress has been made along all lines—well-balanced and well-rounded. There has been governmental organization, athletic development, many social activities and scholastic advancement. But to be more explicit.

In the first month of school a constitution was written by the newly-elected student body officers and ratified by the school. This constitution has stood the test of a whole year and promises to serve the purpose of Carmel students for many years to come.

In close connection with the student body, numerous clubs were organized. The members of the newspaper club have shown journalistic ability and, after an experimental start, have produced many snappy editions of The Padre. The orchestra has shown they have fine talent in enjoyable concerts throughout the year. Giving excellent support to the orchestra in the musical programs has been the A Cappella choir. The dramatic group has delighted all with their productions; the biggest and most amusing one being Martin Flavin's "Broken Dishes." Both the Spanish and French Clubs have been active throughout the year with picnics, dinners, and dances.

The sports record is one to be proud of. With a small and untrained group of boys Coach Hobson has brought out good teams in football, basketball and baseball. The tennis team came home with victories along with our one-man track team. The athletic girls competed in interclass competitions and at the big play day at Salinas. Both a Block C Club and a Girl's Athletic Association have been organized.

Thick and fast through the entire year have come social activities. The Winter Ball and the Barn Dance were the big successes in the dance world. The different class picnics were all great fun. The biggest social whirl came, however, the last of May with Senior Week. School was declared illegal by the seniors who were taking their privileges in hand. Picnics, luncheons and dances followed one on another. Such fun.

And last but not least there has been scholastic development. Both an honorary society and a chapter of the California Scholarship Federation have been organized. The students have been inspired by an enthusiastic faculty, many of whom are young.

Yes, it's been a good first year at Carmel High.

HERITAGE

The young people of Carmel have the privilege of being educated in a small community where the fine arts are considered a vital and necessary part of living. So strong is the atmosphere of culture that even temporary residents succumb to its influence, and many to whom music and drama have meant nothing in the past are often seen in the theaters and concert halls. In larger towns an art exhibit is a thing to be enjoyed individually; in Carmel it is a social event to which everyone comes. Thus it is with the other arts, also.

It is interesting to notice that many of the lectures and recitals are given, not in a structure dedicated solely to that purpose, but in the grammar-school auditorium. No longer is the concert hall an unfamiiar building that is difficult to find; no longer must the child be conducted there by his parents only on special occasions; instead, it is a part of the very school which he attends nine months of the year. Naturally, he is aware of all the current attractions, and, because of the familiarity of the surroundings and the presence of people whom he knows, he feels a stronger desire to attend. It is as if concert-going were simply an extra-curricular activity conducted by the school.

Furthermore, the student is greatly encouraged by the numerous advantages that are offered him. For instance, he is able to buy tickets at a specially reduced price. He is asked to serve as an usher, to take a small share of the responsibility. Sometimes he is even chosen to perform in amateur productions, in plays and on musical programs. In fact, several young people of promise have, in this manner, been given an oportunity to display their talent.

The future painter or sculptor is equally fortunate. Living all around him there are artists with whom he can talk and study, men and women who are his neighbors and often his personal friends. He can watch them at work and learn from them the principles of their technique. He is able to see demonstrated before him the particular properties of various media and to acquire from observation a knowledge of the tools with which he will work. On the other hand, the future layman, in visiting the galleries, so informal and inviting, develops a fuller appreciation of contemporary American art, an appreciation which will make him more willing to patronize and encourage it in later life. There is also instilled in him a love of beautiful things and of the joy that they bring to us.

Throughout his life in the home, on the street, and at school, the student in Carmel is brought into constant contact with the finest products of the mind and the hand, and he is taught to believe that art is not the property of specialists, but that it belongs to each and every one of us.

LOOKING FOR LADY'S SLIPPERS

Gorgeous insects perched at rest
On slender reeds
Are the objects of my quest—
Gorgeous insects perched at rest
Like those which fairies, silken-tressed
Select as steeds—
Gorgeous insects perched at rest
On slender reeds.

TO THE DOGWOOD TREE

All thy throbbing white flow'rs seem with brightness to bark
While thy sober companion-trees listen.
When the rest of the forest is silently dark,
All thy throbbing white flow'rs seem with brightness to bark.
In the country in wood, in the city in park,
In the sunlight intensely they glisten.
All thy throbbing white flow'rs seem with brightness to bark
While thy sober companion-trees listen.

TO A ROW OF IRISES

In plumes and purple robes attired,
Ye stiffly stand like kings and queens
Who pose in portraits uninspired
In plumes and purple robes attired.
Expecting to be much admired
For your impressive, royal miens,
In plumes and purple robes attired,
Ye stiffly stand like kings and queens.

PICKING TULIPS

I see in each tulip I pick
A taper that flickers no more,
A candle burnt down to the stick.
I see in each tulip I pick
A crater of wax with a wick,
Now brittle and charred, on its floor.
I see in each tulip I pick
A taper that flickers no more.

—ROBERT D. YOUNG.

WE THE PEOPLE

We the people of Carmel,
Dwell in a city of quiet and beauty,
Dwell among the trees of the forest,
Play on the sands of the sunny beach.

We the people of Carmel,
Dwell in a nation of wealth and freedom,
Dwell as a people of truth and equality,
Live as a people, happy and ambitious.

We the people of Carmel,
Dwell in a world of hate and sorrow,
Dwell as a people merciful and mighty,
Act in times of national emergencies.

We are great and we are mighty.
We are young but very wise.
We must work to save our nation.
We the people!!

—ELINOR SMITH.

EVENING

Evening is a time of peace,
The impenetrable stillness of twilight
The flicker of a lonely star.

Evening brings a freshness in the air,
The scent of damp earth cleansed by summer rain.

Evening comes when crickets sing their lullaby
To drowsy flowers,
When mists come stealing over sleepy garden walls.

Evening is a time when dreams are born,
When lonely hearts once more remember,
And dying embers come to life again.

Evening is the child of night
Fast drifting toward another day.

—LYNNE STRASBURGER.

PROTECTION ON THE BEACH

The biggest problem facing the Carmel taxpayers is protection on the beach. I happened to be on the beach where I observed another near-drowning. A soldier under the influence of liquor was caught in a rip tide. He was rescued by two soldiers from Fort Ord who had been on the scene of the last few drownings. I talked to them, and they told me that they are stationed on our beach on the week-ends and holidays. Also they have stationed a Red Cross tent and ambulance at the foot of Ocean Acvenue. In my opinion these are the best improvements Carmel has seen in many a day.

Everyone knows how treacherous the beach is and we take no chances. But most of us do not realize that the tourists who visit here in the summer do not know the danger of our beach. I think that some large signs should be stationed in prominent places on the beach. These signs should say: "This beach unsafe" in large letters. The few small signs now up are rarely noticed by visitors. Is this any way to warn the public?

—YVONNE MERCURIO.

THE STREETS OF CARMEL

A detriment to driving, a bump from eternity, and a Class-A example of bad repair work; thus the streets of Carmel have been advertised. It is al right to try and perserve our Bohemian atmosphere but—not at the expense of so many lives. Tourists say that we purposely let our roads go to rack and ruin because we wish to discourage them. This is not true. It is not the fault of a snobbish town; rather, it is the fault of a bungling citizenry. The streets are in terrible condition as everyone knows. What is to be done about it? If the administration does not and cannot accomplish anything, it will be up to the citizens. We might even revert back to the old Dutch custom of having everybody take care of the streets.

Our back streets are not necessarily bad; it is the main roads that are so shameful. They draw deaths like flies to a watermelon. The hair around the back of our head may be unkempt, but anyone should and could wash his face once in a while.

—FRANK TIMS.

1914—1939

A low, ominous siren shattered the stillness of that last high-ceilinged mid-Victorian mansion on Stanhope Road.

Rigid in a high-back chair sat a slim figure. She seemed young in face and form, yet those snowy curls were real. Mystic blue eyes did not waver for they seemed to see another world. Even the hurried movements in the house did not disturb her calm.

He had told her he would be back soon; this war to end all war would not be long. That had been 1914; now it was 1939. Yet for her only a few weeks had passed, "for he would be back soon."

They spoke gently when they told her, "War has been declared. Come to the basement, away from the noise." She knew they were wrong. How could there be another war when he was fighting the war to end wars? "He would be back soon."

A thin distant whistle crescendoed to a deafening roar. A bomb did its awful worst. A deep crater made a tomb of that last high-ceilinged mid-Victorian mansion on Stanhope Road.

One war had dragged them hopelessly apart; the next, by a terrible twist of fate, had reunited them.

Trials and Tribulations of an Average Carmelite

Or I Think I'll Spend My Summer Across the Bay In Santa Cruz

By JUNE PETTY

Summer is here and the rush has begun. Visitors are streaming up and down the streets—you know they're visitors because the natives aren't so aggressive—knocking you over, socking you, and generally trampling you underfoot. After all, who are you? You're just a Carmelite, a taxpayer of this quiet community and should have become accustomed to the summer bedlam by now.

You stagger from the house at 9 a. m. because the next door neighbors, after whooping it up for 12 hours, seem to be just starting.

You decide to make a half-hearted dash for the post office. After braving the terrors and dangers of traffic you succeed in arriving at the P. O. still in one piece. Now comes the fun. Where to park? Well, you're a smart one;you know what to do—just wait for someone to drive out! You painstakingly manoeuver the car into such a position that you can't help but get the parking place when the other fellow leaves.

Oh! Oh! Watch out! Here comes some dashing motorist! What difference does it make? You need only one fender anyhow. Here he comes on his way back. You should care—that's what bumpers are for, but you did think it looked better on the back of your car than on the front of his.

But you don't mind because you've finally gotten a parking place.

A brilliant idea flashes into your mind. You honk your horn so the people will jump and give you a split second in which to dash through the door of the P. O. A woman knocks off your hat; some kid throws a ball and smashes your glasses; someone thought your jacket was his and tried to get into it. What difference does it make? You always needed a nice long rip in the back for ventilation.

You arrive before your box only to find swarms of people got there before you. You grit your teeth, puff out your chest, and barge into what feels like a rock wall. In the course of action you are politely given a black eye and a broken arm. But at last! There's your box! You gleefully work the combination, although you really didn't need to because someone has smashed in the front, and look for the mail. There isn't any! The postman hasn't gotten to your box yet because he has been busy sorting out General Delivery for the vacationers. But you don't mind. All you want to do now is grab the car and dash for home.

You weave toward the P. O. door. Some lady's pekinese bites you and tears your trouser leg. An artistically-minded wolfhound tears a hole in the opposite pants-leg just to make the effect symmetrical. But by now your body is so numb you don't even feel it, so you whirl around and laugh maniacally at the dog. You're pleased to see how disappointed they are.

Next you spend half an hour looking for your car, for although you saw one that vaguely resembled yours, the other car looked four years younger. Well, never mind; it must be your car anyway. Just get out of here.

Ah! Fate seems to be smiling at you for before you know it, you're three blocks away and almost home. You don't believe it's true—something must be wrong. You knew it! The front and back of the car just decided to meet. Oh, well, you always did want them to become acquainted.

Suddenly it's all too much for you! You drop into a delightfully peaceful and untroubled faint.

Um-m-just smell those flowers—and the soft bed! Well, you always did think a hospital would be the closest thing to heaven!

A determined, grim look darts into your eyes. Are you going to stand for this treatment every summer? No! Definitely no! You ring for the nurse and after reserving a private room with bath you settle back into the pillows and heave a sigh of relief. "Ha! I guess I've got them licked," you chuckle to yourself.

But what's that? The nurse comes in and very sweetly tells you that she is sorry, but since the hospital is overcrowded this season you must recuperate at home. That's too much! You start screaming and running about, throwing things.

Again darkness falls about you. But you don't care because it's so peaceful and soothing.

When you awaken you've finally gotten what you want. Despite the handicap of a strait-jacket you are enjoying peace and solitude in your own private little cell!

A Senior's Thoughts on Graduation

All good things must come to an end. This is the general attitude taken towards the day of graduation. It will be the end of us—not in the drastic sense of the word, but from the sense of having to get out on our own. No longer will there be a weekly allowance waiting for us, no more luxuries as in the past. But from the time of graduation we will get these by the sweat of our brows. We don't expect it to be easy. We have taken the optimistic side—the view of expecting the worst but hoping for the best.

As the years go by we will enter many branches of the professional world, but to all of us Carmel High school will stand as a monument of what can be done by a little cooperation among the community members.

How to Get to West Point

I have been requested by many people to explain the process by which one can enter the Unitd States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. I will more or less follow the typical aspirant in his endeavor to achieve his ambition.

The first essential is to get an appointment. By appointment, one usually refers to the permission to take the entrance examinations. To obtain this permission, which must be given by a senator or representative (except in a few special cases), the candidate-to-be writes his Congressman requesting permission to compete in his (the Congressman's) competitive examinations for appointment. These examinations are given by the majority of the Congressman, usually on Oct. 5 of the year preceding the date the appointment is valid.

To be eligible for appointment, the candidate-to-be must have finished first, second or third place in the competitive exam. The man placing first is designated "principle", the second, the "first alternate", and the third, the "second alternate." In case of default, or failure of the principle, the alternates advance to fill the vacancy, retaining their same order. Assuming our candidate has finished second, shall we say, he is designated "first alternate", and will be admitted to the Academy upon failure of the principle. Of all the boys taking the competitive exams for the appointment, only the three top candidates will be permitted to take the final entrance exams. These three boys receive notification from the War Department, directing them to report to an examination center near their home on March 5, where they will be examined mentally and physically for entrance to the Academy.

All three boys are examined on March 5, though the examination may last five to six days. Upon the completion of the examination, the boys proceed to their homes, where they await the results. In approximately two months time, the War Department notifies each candidate of his standing.

We see our candidate has been lucky, the War Department has advanced him to principle as the original failed to qualify. So our candidate is directed to report to the United States Military Academy at 9:00 a. m., July 1.

May I suggest that if you desire detailed information, a free pamphlet can be obtained by writing to the Adjutant, care The War Department, Washington, D. C.

—LEWIS NORMAN.

"Army Brats" at High School Have Had Interesting Experiences

The experiences of many "Army Brats" are varied and wide in scope. A typical crosssection of some of the students at Carmel High who fall into that category reveals unique and interesting facts.

Albert "Buck" Kotzebue, a husky, strapping high school senior, the son of Lt. Col. Leon L. Kotzebue of Carmel, can point to his 17 years of exciting life as punctuated with extensive travel. "Buck" holds many of the Carmel students spellbound with his vivid description of unusual experiences in the Philippines. Or he may give a running account of an adventure in New York. He enters actively into school activities, having won letters in several major sports, and lendin ga helping hand to the student body, when such help is needed

Another high school student who is "Army" is Joan Trudeau, daughter of Major Arthur G. Trudeau. Joan, a 15-year-old sophomore, is well known and well liked in Carmel. Before coming to Carmel she lived in Seattle, Wash. For one to hear her speak of her escapades is interesting, for her enthusiastic manner commands everyone's attention. Joan occupies a position high in the view of her companions. She is an official of the local Junior Red Cross, as well as being an ambitious member of the Carmel High School Student Body. Just ask any student who she is—they'll know!

That red-haired, smiling boy wearing a block "C" sweater you see in our town of Carmel is W. R. "Bill" Huggins, son of Major William C. Huggins of Carmel. His fun-loving, tempestuous self is quite a figure in the high school, and you can't go far before he is pointed out to you. Bill hails from Honolulu, Hawaii, and when given a start can out-talk anyone on the subject of past and humorous event of his life. Bill plays football, and sings in the A Cappella Choir, modestly admits that he's not a genuius, though his school record places him high. His smile is immediately impressive, as is his bearing, and Carmel High is proud to claim him.

A review of the "Army Brats" in Carmel High would not be complete if the "Marshalls" were not included. These girls, Mary and Louise, daughters of Major C. L. Marshall, are two Carmel students of enviable repute. Both are studious, as school records place Mary in the Honor Scholarship Society, and Louise is an Honor Roll member. Their popularity and competence are evidenced by the fact that both hold administrative offices in the student body. These girls arrived from Fort Sam Houston, Texas, last summer, and many are the tales they relate!! Those unused to the Marshalls find it a bit difficult to keep tab of their spirited conversation, as it touches points about the United States where center their interests. Mary and Louise are, to borrow a word by which the student body refers to them, "super."

Another "Army Brat" is Lewis Norman, son of Lt. Col. Lewis S. Norman. Louie,s as he is called by the student body, is a 17-year-old senior, whose main ambition in life is to become an army officer. He has progressed the first step of the way in that he has won an appointment to West Point, successfully passed the entrance exams, and will enter July 1. Louie seems to be universally accepted by the student body. He is inclined toward literary work, writing poetry and prose being one of his hobbies. Scholastically, Louie shines in Math and Science. However, he's "one of the gang", and I did hear someone say, "Louie's a swell guy!"

Patricia Royse, daughter of Lt. Col. Frank Royse, is a later arrival to the high school. She lived in Honolulu before she came to Carmel. "Pat" is a senior at Carmel high, and her particular interests lie ni the field of music, as she is an accomplished violinist. Pat is quiet, studious and modest; these traits lying behind her popularity. She has been connected with several ambitious student body undertakings.

With this too-brief sketch of but a few of Carmel High's "Army Brats", an endeavor has been made to acquaint you with their general character. We only regret that a sketch of each Army Brat could not be included.

Army Hop Was Fun for All

Pertaining more or less to the Army Brats in Carmel High was the last student body dance of the year. It was called the "Army Hop", and was sponsored by the "Army Bunch."

Lewis Norman and Bill Huggins, co-chairman of the dance committee, planned and executed impressive decorations, acclaimed by many as the best yet in Carmel High. Across one entire wall was spread alternate colored crepe paper, the center occupied by a huge ARMY spelt in six-foot letters. Old Glory occupied the main position in the front of the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Getsinger were guests for the evening. The patrons reported that a marvelous time was had by all.

Where?

Have you ever been asked where such- and-such a place is, or where does so-and-so live? It is quite embarrassing to find yourself thinking over and over the names of the streets and the order in which they come. The elderly people are apt to be quite helpful, but those younger ones are going to take advantage of these new things who don't know their way around our fair city surrounded in bright summer fog. The visitors may ask where Carpenter street is and they will be directed to Scenic Drive by our mischievous young ones. Now we high school students are most helpful. I recall a day, not so long ago, when I was asked where Hatton Fields was by an elderly couple. There were three of us in the group and we were just returning from the beach—feeling quite gay. When we were addressed by these strangers, we immediately became serious. As one in the group started, we fell in line and directed the bewildered couple to the dead-end street at the river. Of course you can see what I'm leading up to? Carmel needs street signs—not little ones, but big clear ones.

SERVICES HELD FOR EARL H. WALLS

Services were held at Paul Funeral home Monday morning for Earl H. Walls, pioneer Carmelite and former member of Carmel Street Department, who was drowned three weeks ago when his small fishing boat overturned off Point Joe. Dr. James E. Crowther of the Church of the Wayfarer officiated.

Walls' body was recovered last Friday afternoon. It had been washed ashore on Pacific Grove beach, one mile south of Point Pinos lighthouse, 13 days after the tragedy, and was first seen by Sgt. L. V. Larson, Company L, 17th Infantry at Fort Ord, identified by Frank Sales, Special Officer Howard Poe, and Officer Herschel Jones of the Pacific Grove force.

There is no sign thus far of Frank Dalton of Monterey, who was drowned with Walls.

Members of Mr. Walls' family surviving him are: A. W. Walls, 29-year-old son, who was third party on the ill-fated fishing trip and was fortunately rescued: Mrs. Mary O. Walls, this wife; four other sons, Wesley, Roy, Earl, Jr., and Harold, and a daughter, Miss Clara Walls, all of Carmel.

RECORDS IN REVIEW

A notable trend in popular music has been the influx of "gut-bucket jive", better known as "music in a family way." This trend has been due to the efforts of several small but solid combos, most prominent are the Four Chips with their blues maestro, Professor Woody Herman; Doctor Will "Beat-me-Daddy and I'll scrub-you-Mama" Bradley and his Boogie Woogie Four; and the recently organized no doubt world famous Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street—than which there is none. These groups have recorded several informal recitals—one of which, the C. M. S. of L. B. S. has been incorporated in album. A perusal of this album revealed delightful arrangements of the old masters, notable among which are the renditions of "Shoemaker's Holiday," "Runnin' Wild," "Dinah's Blues" and "Basin Street Blues."

The Four Chips also shine in their platter of "Chips Boogie-Woogie" and "Chip's Blues." Especially note Professor Herman's brilliant clarinet rides against a driving background, and the resounding finish, strictly in the barrel-house, but good.

Boogie-Woogie in the modern form owes itself to the pervading efforts of Dr. Bradley and his eminent associates. Taken from the old Chicago Style, which consisted of a walking base while battering out the melody in upper register. The Bradley style consists of the walking base coupled with delicate variations and a blues there in the upper register. A good—indeed excellent—example is found in "Down the Road A-piece." GERALD RAY

BASKETBALL DINNER QUITE SUCCESSFUL—

After completing successful seasons in basketball, tennis and track, the boys on the teams attended the official banquet which follows the closing of each season. Gathering together in the Carmel High School music room on Thursday night at 6:30 p. m., the boys had a very tasty dinner, which was followed by informal talks by Doc Staniford, Coach Hobson, Mr. Bardarson, Mr. Marrs and Mr. Doerr. The baseball hustlers present were: Martin Artellan, Russell Bohlke, Robert Gansel, Gordon Miyamoto, Orville Jones, Kenneth Jones, Donald Berry, Albert Kotzebue, Jason Harbert, Clinton Norman, and Donald Staniford. Netmen attending the dinner were: George Gossler, James Greenan, Louis Levinson, Donald Haskins, James Kelsey, Robert Kelsey, Eade Jordan, and Jack Matteson. Bob Gargiulo was present representing Carmel High's one-man track team. — A. V.

FRIENDLY COMMENTS
By H. E. Allyn, D. C.

Well, the President made his speech and he kind of told the boys, so to speak, just what they might expect the score to be. No one has the final score yet, but it looks like Hitler is to be thrown for a loss beyond his own 40-yard line. It looks like we will have to run our skirmish line over there to do it. We have been making passes long enough, now—we'll have to tackle.

Just how are you going to tackle that health problem of yours? Come in and take my electrometric examination. You may not believe what the doctor tells you, but you must believe what the analyzer shows you. . . . Today's instruments make physical analysis possible, and in Dr. Allyn's modernly equipped office we bring this great advantage within reach of practically every individual . . . by asking as little fee as we dare and still remaining in practice. We offer you a complete examination for one dollar.

FRESHMAN DAY

On Saturday, June 7, the Freshmen of Carmel High will spend the day at Robles Del Rio. That evening a dance will be given at the Girl Scout house for freshmen only.

The class will meet at Sunset School at 10 a. m. and will return around 3:00. Swimming will be the main sport during the day, but if you feel energetic there are plenty of trails to hike (that is if you don't get poison oak!)

Although the theme for the dance has not yet been decided, it will probably be decorated in blue and white and take place on an imaginary ship. So come on, all you freshmen, and have a good time!

—CYNTHIA KLEIN.

Fledgling Einsteins

By CONNIE POTTER

Mr. Getsinger's physics class will emerge from their year's study as fledgling Einsteins. They have learned the principles of heat, light, sound, electricity, and are supposed to have mastered the fundamentals of X-ray and radio.

The physics students have lived this last year in constant fear of Mr. Getsinger's "quickies", which are little daily quizzes that probe the limits of understanding.

In the latter part of the year each student gave a special report on some phase of electricity. To-land Doud arranged to have the class make a trip to Rohr's Electric Shop where Mr. Rohr was kind enough to show and explain the various electrical appliances in the shop. After this interesting demonstration, Mr. Getsinger treated the entire class to cokes at the Carmel Dairy.

Soon after the delightful excursion a great blow came to the physics class when Mr. Getsinger came down with the mumps. Mr. Lockwood came to take his place and, as he put it, "to lend dignity to the occasion." The class enjoyed him immensely. He quoted Shakespeare and Tennyson by the yard, and made the class feel quite intellectual.

Movies were shown the class in connection with its work throughout the year.

Although the work has been rather difficult, the physics class has enjoyed it, and feels that it has gained much knowledge in the world of science.

JIM KELSEY TO BOYS TOWN

As the first representative of Carmel at Boys' Town in Sacramento, the American Legion is proud to have chosen Jim Kelsey.

Boy's Town is an annual gathering of high school boys throughout the state. The idea behind the organization is to give the boys an opportunity to learn about constitutional functions and get a chance to govern themselves. The boys return from this conference full of good ideas and enthuse the school with new and useful plans.

Jim Kelsey, as the Carmel representative, is going to Sacramento with full expenses paid by the Carmel American Legion, which is under the command of Major T. B. Taylor. Jim will be gone from June 21 to June 28.

What Now, Seniors?

After completing a secondary education, 70 per cent of this graduating class is planning some form of higher education. This is indeed a high percentage for any graduating class. The fact that Carmel is a residential city rather than a business community is the probable reason that so many are going away. Some intend to go to universities and others will go to Salinas Junior College.

Carmel High will be represented at the University of California by Peter Elliott, Ann Millis, and Connie Potter. Gerald Ray will enter the University of California at Los Angeles. Harvey Gardner is hoping to go to the University of Southern California. Jackie Klein also hopes to attend an institution in the southern part of the state—Occidental College. Emma Wishart, Lillian Ohm and Mary Uzzell will go to San Jose State College if all goes well. Alice Vidoroni will receive her higher education at Mills College. In order to take an advanced music course, Pat Royse will go to the College of Pacific.

Buck Kotzebue will leave California to go to Texas A. & M. for his college work. Hats off to Lewis Norman, who received his appointment to West Point. He will start his military training in July. The University of Alaska will provide Joe Morsony with the required law course. The artist of the school, Coldy Whitman, will improve his art work at some commercial art school. Elaine McEntire will attend a business college in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Salinas Junior College will have many of the members of this class next fall. They are Yvonne Mercurio, Clara Walls, Orville Jones, Alfred Black, Don Berry, Donna Hodges, Frank Tims and Barbara Hill. Still undecided in regard to next year are Bob Gargiulo, Robert Young, Bill Arms, Lachlan Van Bibber, and Marty Artellan.

—ALLY VIDORONI.

Carmel High is about to lose one of its most attractive sophomore girls. Joan Trudeau and her family have been transferred to Fort Leavenworth, Kas. Joan will be here until school closes, then with fond farewells she will bid her friends "adieu."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints." These words from Revelation comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, June 8, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "God the Only Cause and Creator." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens. And every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb in the field before it grew: . . . " (Gen. 2, 4, 5 to :).

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "God, Spirit, alone created all, and called it good. . . . Spirit creates no other than heavenly or celestial bodies, but the stellar universe is no more celestial than our earth, . . . Mind made the 'plant of the field before it was in the earth.' . . How much more should we seek to apprehend the spiritual ideas of God, than to dwell on the objects of sense! To discern the rhythm of Spirit and to be holy, thought must be purely spiritual" (pp. 339, 509, 510).

Sports . . .

This being Carmel High's first year, I feel that it has progressed fairly well against organized teams that have worked together with our boys in sports at Monterey High in years past. Carmel High's football field has no turf, no stands, or half the equipment it needs. Next year we will have turf, stands, and much more equipment.

All our sports have been well organized for this first year by Mr. Hobson. Near the beginning of the term Mr. Hobson pulled a ligament in his hip at football practice and was laid up in the hospital for quite awhile. During his time in the hospital Mr. Buffa took over the gym. Mr. Buffa is from San Jose State College and taught gym mostly while it was football season and Mr. Hobson came back to the C. H. S. in time to teach the boys basketball. Under these two teachers Carmel High showed much skill and ambition. I feel sure that next year will show a team with ambition and great spirit. We may not win all the games we play but we surely will give the other teams a run for their money.

FOOTBALL—

Carmel High School's first sport was football, which was started as soon as school took up last September. Six-man football was the type of football Carmel High was going to take up until Coach Hobson saw the fine turnout of 28 boys of the student body. Practice was held every day after school, and after two weeks of practice our team began to take shape. Although the team did not have the facilities other high schools have, they made good use of what they had and got along very well.

A short time before our first game Coach Hobson met with an accident which put him in the hospital for three months. Mr. Doerr, Mr. Craig, and Coach Buffa from San Jose State College, coached the team through the rest of the football season. They certainly did a fine job of it, too.

Our first game was with Monterey High School lightweights. This happened to be the first time many of the boys on our team had ever played. After a hard-fought game we lost, 19 to 0. Our next game was a practice game with Pacific Grove High School's Junior Varsity. Bob Gansel made the first touchdown for Carmel, and at the end of another fine game the score was tied, 6 to 6. After another week of hard practice we played the Salinas lightweight team, but they were much better and we lost, 21 to 0. We tied our last game, 7 to 7, with the Hollister lightweights.

—GEORGE MOLLER.

TENNIS—

During the year 1941 at Carmel High, we had a show out of the minimum amount of players. We played the following schools: Monterey, Pacific Grove, Salinas, Watsonville and Santa Cruz. We did very well in school competition, considering that Gossler was the only one that has had previous training and instruction. We walked away with victories in our matches with Pacific Grove and Watsonville.

Baseball, Too.—by DeWitt Appleton

Without Gossler we would have had a hard time winning anything. He displayed wonderful mental control, when he surprised us all by having none of his previous bursts of anger. Jordan, like the rest of the team, tried very hard to win his matches, but on the whole, he is much too cheerful and easy going. He also needed a little more practice before matches. Jim "Lardito" Kelsey practiced daily, and did lots to bring our team to victory, although at times he couldn't seem to "get the lead out." Bob Kelsey, only a freshman, played very hard this year, and he shows good promise for our next year's team. Greenan's steady game brought him through to victory many times. Toward the end of the year Don Haskins showed a very definite improvement, and he might be outstanding next year. Levinson, although slow to start, came through with the steadiness that wins matches. Last, but not least, Matteson did well, although he needed a lot more practice. By next year we hope to have a fully trained team that will bring us an easy C. C. A. L. victory.

We, of the tennis team, owe all our success to our fine and able coach, Mr. David Marrs, who has put much time and effort into training us. We hope that he will be able to coach us again next year, and we now take this opportunity of expressing our sincere thanks for all he has done.

—EADE JORDAN.

A popular group of Carmel High School girls are looking forward to a wonderful trip to Yosemite this summer. The girls are "Tiny" Johnston, Lynne Strasburger, Mary Marshall, Louise Marshall, Kay Neagle. The girls plan to stay two weeks with a chaperon. Watch your step, girls!

Fun in Fads

In case you have never noticed the high school glamour gals and their ever-changing fads, may I suggest you do so in the near future. Oh! yes I know the scenery about here is beautiful but just take your eyes off the view for a minute and glance at these high school cuties.

This winter brought about a shocking change in the legs of our young lassies. Worn by a large percentage of the girls were knee length stockings and my! what collors: red, green, blue and even a plaid now and then. Baggy sweaters reaching to the knees and saddle shoes painted with red nail polish, appearing without warning, and papas found their new cashters. Red jackets took a promimere draped about their daughnent place in the winter wardrobe. One was hardly indistinguishable from another, which led to many a tragic mixup.

As the days grew longer and hotter our girls became more restless for spring togs. Broomstick skirts, Chinese sandals and tobies were the first attempts at spring; not to mention the ever-popular sloppy Joe sweaters, in pastel colors, and light plaid skirts.

Hair has taken quite a beating this year, for a while the hair was worn long. Then the peroxided streak became the fad. Now girls are cutting off their beautiful locks in order to attain that windblown effect.

If you happen to see a girl with pretzels, macaroni or puffed rice strung about her neck, don't be alarmed; it's only a Carmelite and her idea of novelty jewelry. Everything from sea shells to raffia necklaces are being worn.

Gypsy bracelets, shorts, Jerges, ankle bracelets and fake fingernails have all been popular fads this year. And many others which you will have to notice for yourselves. Last but not least a sun tan is "a must" for all the fairer sex. It is all very well and good to have a beautiful tan, but have you noticed they all take school time to acquire it.

Scouting the Shops

Cooly . . . we suggest that for real summer comfort, there is nothing in town more flattering or practical than seersucker suits at the CLOTHES CLOSET on Ocean avenue, near Dolores. They are beautifully tailored, with smart detail. Just the thing to wear everywhere . . . up and down the avenue, to the beach . . . over the hill, or up to town. They wash, of course. And should be a MUST for everyone who needs a thoroughly all-around outfit.

Do you fondly remember the lovely camisole with its lace and ribbons, or are you one of the young things to which it is being introduced this season? Either way, you ought to run, not walk . . . to RENE'S in the Pine Inn, where you will find that they are lead stories in lingerie news — along with petticoats, very scandy panties —and some super bras, that will, all three, do things for your spring figure, not to mention your allure. Everything is white this season—white and very dainty.

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away"—but an apple-lipped gal is inviting to everyone. Helene Rubinstein realized that the moment the Stars and Stripes "caught on" as the color theme of America. Someone was going to go more than half way with a cosmetic. No woman was going to be caught short with half-way lips and full-red accessories. The apple-red lipstick was the answer. Let your lips defy Hitler—dyed in true red—honest red—the color of our nation's fruit and flag. You will find it featured at DOC STANIFORD'S. Helena Rubinstein's Apple Red is the red of the polished apple in the sun . . bright, clear, a lovely color for American complexions . . in a lustrous texture . . . today's perfect accent for gay, smiling lips! Pioneer Carmelite Dies In Oakland

Edmondson C. Sims, who died last Tuesday in Oakland, was an old Carmelite who came to Carmel in 1903 to supervise the building of some of the first houses and stores built here. Living in a tent where Ewig's Grocery store is now, Sims supervised contracting such jobs as the building of White Cedars, the old Sleving store, the Staniford Drug Store building and the remodeling of the Pine Inn when it was moved to its present site. Later Sims moved to Oakland where he lived until he died at the age of 91.

LOOKING BACK—

20 YEARS AGO—

June 30, 1921—School's closed. Swimmin' takes the place of 'rithmetic and the dolls do a full day's work for awhile. An interesting program on the porch of Sunset school yesterday afternoon marked the finale of the study hours, and this morning's sun will launch the year's big playtime for the school children of Carmel.

Ten pupils have completed their work at the local school: Myrtle Arne, George Aucourt, Gordon Green, Fay Murphy, Manuel Pereira, Lucy Abell, Benjamin Duggar, Alice Pepper, Camile Russell and Dolores Tarr. The first five will enter the Monterey High School this fall, while the others are still undecided about the future.

15 YEARS AGO—

June 25, 1926—A musical program arranged by Miss Blanche Tolmie opened the graduation exercises yesterday afternoon in Sunset auditorium. There was group singing, a piano solo, a chorus of all grades. Lois Love, president of the class, delivered a short address. Diplomas were persented to Dr. Alfred E. Burton to 20 pupils: Mary Ammerman, Billy Argo, Edward Arminini, Wilma Bassett, Robert Cone, Edward Dewey, Peter Floor, Billie Heron, Caryl Jones, Herbert McQuckin, Marion Minges, Lyle Palmer, Mildred Pearson, Margarite Tickle, Helen Turner, Helen Ward, Muriel Watson, Lillian Wentworth, Hester Schoeninger and Lois Love.

Mr. Cox is a former sales executive and a member of the teaching staff of the California State Board of Education. This course will be given in eight evening meetings on each Wednesday and Friday of the week. Being a highly practical survey, it is designed to assist business men and women to develop the type of personality which will be of value in improving sales ability. This new feature of the adult school should be received with much enthusiasm.

To The Class Of '41

Congratulations

TO the Class of '41, we offer our sincere best wishes. You are the first class to be graduated from our new high school and some of you are the first to have received all your education so far in the schools of Carmel.

YOU have had the wonderful opportunity of growing into young manhood and womanhood in one of the most beautiful spots in the world,

SO, with a rich heritage of life and growth in Carmel, it has been for you to lay the corner-stone of school tradition . . . as it is your privilege to carry it through the years . . . an ideal of conduct and achievement to be cherished by those who follow you.
